OUR STOCK SALE.

The stock sale at this place last Wednesday proves beyond peradventure of a doubt that this is the point at which to sell. There was about 500 head of cattle on the market, which were mostly sold at good prices. A few horses and mules brought good prices, and altogether the sale was a success, despite the opposition from some dealers who dislike to see the masses prosper. Our sale on Wednesday, though a big success, demonstrated the fact that it has the bitter opposition of cattle dealers in this section, and in doing so only proves that the sales at Hazel Green are the best for the farmer. These local cattle dealers go through the country representing that cattle are low in the markets generally, and buy frequently at such rates that the farmer is discouraged. The Hazel Green sales are a death-blow to this policy, and every farmer in the mountains of Kentucky should protect himself by bringing his stock to this place to sell.

To the farmers we would say, when you are approached privately and asked to sell a cow or calf, a horse or mule, or anything else in the way of live-stock, inform the solicitor that you will sell your stock at Hazel Green on Wednesday, the 15th day of July, and if he wants it he can buy it there. By doing this you can protect yourself. If a cow is worth $2 more than these "cattle dealers" offer, you can get the $2 here.

We admit the fact that the sales here will eventually prove disastrous to the middle-men dealers, because the money they have been making out of your stock you can make yourself. To illustrate, we will say this: if you wanted to sell a cow would you go to your neighbor and say to him: "Sam, I've got a cow that is worth $40, I know a man who will give me that for her, but I want you to make $10 of this money, so I'll sell her to you for $30 and you can sell her for $40." You won't do anything of the kind, knowing, but when you sell to those cattle dealers who come to your own home you do this every time. We do not object to their buying cattle from you. That's all right. But if they want your cattle let them come to Hazel Green to get them. Tell them so. Tell them that when you get here and learn the prices and see how stock is selling, that you will sell at a price upon what you have and sell at it, or put it up at auction and let it fetch what it may. These men who go about the country, buying 3 and 4 head at a place, never pay you what it is reasonably worth, unless it is by accident.

If you sell here you get all it is worth here, because you see how it is selling. The man who takes the stock to market below must make something, and you should be satisfied to allow him to make something, but let him buy here. You must take into consideration the expense that the dealer is subjected to, and sell him at a price that will enable him to make something. This you can do by selling at Hazel Green, and we sincerely hope that not one farmer in the mountains will, in the future, sell one hoof of stock unless he sells it here.

We do not write this because we have anything against stock-dealers, but we write it that farmers throughout this section may keep their eyes open to the facts in the case, and because we have been informed that parties are trying to break it down.

The sales last Wednesday amounted to nearly double those of the previous sale-day, and we sincerely believe now that the sales on Wednesday, the 15th day of July, will double those of last Wednesday.

We think it would be well on next sale-day to have good stock, and to have more horses and mules. Mr. J. G. TRIMBLE, of Mt. Sterling, has promised to advertise the sales there and use his influence to bring buyers. Now, go to work and put your stock in order for the sale here on Wednesday, July the 15th, and don't sell it till you get here.

Hatfield Sentenced.

Mr. STERLING, KY., June 12.—Monteville Hatfield, a young man about 25 years of age, was this morning tried here in the circuit court under an indictment for grand larceny. He entered a plea of guilty, and was sentenced to one year's confinement in the state penitentiary. Hatfield, although a young man, has gained a reputation as one of the bloodiest criminals in Eastern Kentucky. He is under indictment in Pike county as accessory to the murder of 3 men, whose names I have been unable to learn. They were formerly residents of Virginia. This crime is remarkable in its brutality, brutality and bloody details. Hatfield, with 18 others, none of whom have been apprehended, overpowered and took prisoners their 3 victims and brought them to Pike. They tied them out in the woods, naked and exposed to the elements, and after they had suffered the agonies superinduced by their cruel restraint and the ravages of hunger, gathered around them and with the hellish instinct of savages, deliberately riddled their bodies with bullets. He has been a fugitive from justice since until arraigned here on the charge of grand larceny.

Our State Constitution.

[Mt. Sterling Gazette.]
We rise to endorse the editorial in last week's Clark County Democrat, advocating a radical change in the constitution of this state. At the approaching August election the people of Kentucky will be called upon to vote upon this question, and the press of the state should constantly keep before them the necessity for a change. This is not a political question, but is something in which all parties are interested. The Democrat goes so far as to prophesy that if "the republican party will bring a large number of its members, proportionately, to the support of the proposition as the democrats will and have done, the proposed change will be voted at the next election." We believe they should do it, and if they fail to vote for the proposed change they are simply going back on the boasted progress and improvement of the republican party. If they stay at home and do not vote, the proposition will again be defeated, and Kentucky will plod along in the same old rut. The Democrat very pertinently and truthfully says:

"The organic law of our state is notably out of date, and is an obstacle in the way of progress and improvement. Our law-makers are bound hand and foot by the present constitution, and no matter how able a legislature the people may send to Frankfort, until these shackles are burst, it will be perfectly powerless to pass such laws and make such amendments as the growing wants and increasing demands of justice require. In the one matter of education and tenure of office, there is ample room for a change of our constitutional law, so as to enable our legislators to remedy the wrongs which are daily practiced on liberty and people. Office seeking has become a profession, and merit and ability no longer claim political reward. It is the practiced and unscrupulous politician whose dishonest brow is too often decked with the crown of victory. The voice of the respectable voter is drowned in the boisterous clamor of the drunken voter seller. Our officers go into office with their eyes fixed on some future election, and the official act is too often a bid for future support. Change the constitution and give our law-makers an opportunity to remedy these wrongs, and then elect men instead of politicians to the legislature, and the old time purity of the ballot, honesty in office and public confidence will be restored to us."

West Liberty Mutual Aid Society.

The young ladies of West Liberty met and organized a mutual aid society in connection with the matrimonial association of Maytown, to be held the 1st Saturday in each month, and any other day the society deems necessary.

On motion, Miss Annie L. Kendall was chosen president, Miss Willie Ladd secretary and Miss Mary Carter assistant secretary. Misses Lou Nickell, Ada Kendall and Mrs. Kate Cockrill were selected committee on resolutions.

Those present at the first meeting were Misses Maud Hazelrigg, Louella Phillips, Mary Nickell, Lizzie Wilson, Louella Kendall, Dean Adams, Minnie Ward, Frances Esterling, Tid Adkins, Sallie Nickell and Maggie Carter.

The following resolutions were offered and adopted:

"WHEREAS, The young gentlemen of West Liberty and the neighboring towns have been tampering with the affections of some of our young ladies, and

"WHEREAS, We feel a delicacy in extending an offer to other young gentlemen, but as we felt somewhat encouraged by the Maytown matrimonial association, therefore, be it

"Resolved, 1. That we approve of the Maytown matrimonial association and wish to have it to support, and that we will aid them in any way they may desire.

"2. That the young ladies of West Liberty are 'Waiting, only waiting' for the offer of hand and heart of any young gentlemen who are 'strictly O. K.'"

"3. That no young lady in West Liberty ever has or ever will say 'No' to the offer of any such gentleman."

"4. That THE HAZEL GREEN HERALD and Licking Valley Scourer be requested to publish the proceedings of this meeting."

There being no further business, the meeting adjourned till the first Saturday of July. ANNIE L. KENDALL, President. WILLIE LADD, Secy. MARY CARTER, Asst. Secy.

Mt. Sterling Gazette: Friday evening Ed. Connelly and Tim Reagan, two laborers on the new Flat Rock turnpike, while under the influence of whiskey, got into a difficulty near the toll-gate on the Mayville pike, in which Reagan was badly beaten over the head with a hammer. His injuries are not fatal, however. He says Connelly attacked him because he refused to lend him a dollar. Connelly was arrested and placed in jail.

Col. A. J. Auxier is in Louisville settling up his accounts as marshal. The department has disallowed some of his claims and he is aiming to establish them. He says that the government really owes him about $2,000. He informs the Post that newspaper accounts of the trouble in Knott county were greatly exaggerated. Only one man, Alfred Little, was killed. John Keef received a letter last week from a gentleman in Philadelphia who to Woodford county and get a colt belonging to him and bring here and train him. The colt is a solid bay and a perfect beauty—the finest animal in the state. He is by Almont, and a full brother to Early Rose, who trotted in 2:16 to the pole and sold for $20,000.

Samuel Tuttle, a young man employed at Long's saw-mill, in Clark county, died on the 9th inst. from the effects of an accident on Monday. While taking a plank from the edge another plank was thrown violently from the machine and, striking him in the abdomen, inflicted a fatal wound. He was a native of the county, young and unmarried.

Mr. Jay Northup, of Louisiana, was elected chairman at the meeting of the state board of equalization at Frankfort on the 10th inst., and John W. Payne and Horace Posey, of Frankfort, and G. G. Coulter, of Mayfield, secretaries.

Gen. W. S. Rascrans, of California, has been appointed register of the treasury, vice B. K. Bruce resigned.

The wife of Capt. Sam Gaines, deputy clerk of the court of appeals, died at Frankfort Thursday night.

Property valued at $60,000 was destroyed by storm at Atchison, Kansas, Wednesday evening.

EDUCATIONAL.

Meeting of the State Teachers' Association and State Teachers' Institutes.

[Lexington Transcript.]
The state teachers' association will be held at the court-house, in this city, on July 2, 3, 4, and 1885. The programme, already published, embraces important subjects related to public instruction, and will invite attention.

The state teachers' institute will be held at the same place on July 6, 7, 8, 9 and 10. It will be under the conduct of Col. F. W. Parker, the famous "Quincy man" who will illustrate the "Quincy method of instruction." One or more distinguished speakers will address the institute each night. The entire course will be practical and profitable.

A large attendance of county superintendents, school trustees and teachers, and other friends of popular education, is expected at the association and at the institute. All will be cordially welcomed. The colored state teachers' association, in conjunction with the colored state teachers' institute, will be held in this city on July 6, 7, 8, 9 and 10, at the colored ladies' hall. This institute will also be favored with the course of instruction in the "Quincy method" by Col. Parker. The association will hold its sessions each night during the continuance of the institute. The subjects of the programme have been judiciously selected, and their discussion will be instructive. We trust that the advantages insured will attract a large number of teachers.

By the authority of the state board of education, JOS. DESHA PICKETT.

Pres. state board of education.

Usual reductions on railroad and steamboat lines, etc. Low rates of boarding at Lexington during the association and institute. For particulars address Col. John O. Hodges, at Lexington, Prof. J. T. Gaines, at Louisville, or Prof. George A. Yates, at Covington.

All newspapers in the state friendly to the cause of education will be pleased to publish this notice.

Winchester Democrat: The Kentucky Union railroad company have sold the Red river iron-works property, consisting of several thousand acres, to a Swiss company; price, $4 per acre. We are informed that the new purchasers will begin preparation right away for the manufacture of iron.

Hon. S. S. Cox, the new minister to Turkey, will start Saturday, June 20th, to assume his duties.

Campton and Her Surroundings.

Editor of THE HAZEL GREEN HERALD: Campton is situated on Swift's Camp creek—not on one side, but on both—and was originally called "Swiftville." It has blacksmith-shops and men to run them, one cabinet-maker, some few carpenters, brick-mason, plasterer and painter; some "Jacks-of-all-trades," 2 lawyers, 3 doctors, one hotel and 47 boarding-houses, 5 stores, some 2 or 3 resident licensed preachers who never preach, but sometimes go to church; a steam-flour-and-corn-mill, a Masonic hall, a Methodist church, a court-house partly finished, and a jail called a jail, where the weary can sometimes find that which makes them feel happy, and if they can't find 'happiness' there our merchants kindly furnish them with "Strengthening Cordials," "Hostet's Bitters," "Holland gin," etc. Then, too, we have a police judge, a full board of trustees and a town marshal, and not any more loaves than any other town of our size. I had forgotten to say we have a meat market, and will place her alongside of any town in Eastern Kentucky for cats, dogs and hogs.

However, I can say one thing for Campton, and few towns can make the same assertion truthfully. Since its incorporation, 25 years ago, there has been only one person killed in its limits, and that during the war and by soldiers. While other places have dark and bloody spots that their citizens turn away from in ghastly horror, Campton is as pure and unspotted as ever the fresh-fallen snow.

I had forgotten to say we have a meat market, and will place her alongside of any town in Eastern Kentucky for cats, dogs and hogs.

Only a little more than half a mile north of town begins the famous pine belt of Eastern Kentucky, and away to the north and west for miles stretches this vast pine forest. Here the spruce, the white and yellow pines, in all their native majesty, rear their towering branches toward Heaven. As yet this vast belt of timber is almost untouched.

With the coming of the Kentucky Union railroad, this now almost worthless uninhabited section will be worth hundreds of thousands of dollars. About 6 miles north of Campton, and in this pine belt, is the celebrated Swift's or Timmins' silver mine, the ores from which have been tested, and found to contain both silver and gold. To the east and south of Campton are fine forests of oak and poplar as can be found in Eastern Kentucky. Only four miles south of town is the celebrated Hobbs coal bank, 7 feet in thickness, which is pronounced by Prof. Proctor to be one of the finest coking coals in the world. Yet all this vast wealth of timber, of coal, of iron, of gold, of silver, of the coming capitalists and of transportation. Our people are generous and free-hearted, and will gladly welcome any one who desires to visit this section and to see for himself. Give, oh! give us the Kentucky Union railroad, and instead of being a pauper country, we can then hold up our heads with the proudest of them.

Our farmers are at busy working in their crops. Corn is rather small, and wheat not good.

Insurance, in order to be reliable, must be guaranteed by successful and well-known corporations; the policies of doubtful or experimental companies being dear at any price. The best policies are always the cheapest. Insurers should select their companies as they would a banker, or a person who is to hold their funds in trust.
